I had a bad day today.

Yesterday, I bought a robot cat in a toy shop. It was cool. I felt excited. The robot cat could talk. It said, 'Take me to school too.' I was amazed. After that, I brought the robot cat to school in this morning. I played with it with my friends. I was happy.

But then a student saw us and told the teacher. I was upset because the teacher took my robot cat. When I was about to leave the school, the teacher, who took my robot cat, gave it back to me.

In the end, the teacher said to me, 'Don't bring toys to school.' I was happy to get the robot cat back. And I will never bring toys to school again.
